"Generally, the impression that West gives to me is a feeling of being trapped in this institution, where I am expected to receive information and then reproduce it in some form or another. This is not true about all of my classes but that is the feeling I have when I leave at 3:20 each day. I think this is bad because a high school could be run so that students would enjoy coming, instead of hating to be in the building at all. People who I have contact with seem to feel much the same. I think that lessening this feeling of being forced to go through the motions of "going to school" would improve the high school situation from all aspects."

"West High School has played a very unique role in my experience in this country. West High has contributed a great deal to my American formal education, social life, and moreover, my better understanding of the American youth. In the last few years I have had some very devoted teachers help me to improve my English. All this broke down the barrier of communication which confronted me when I first came to this country."

"I feel that my experience at West has been one of inner growth. Although my mind has greatly benefited from the liberal atmosphere of learning which pervades the school, I think that the greatest influence has been on my spirit. I have been deeply enriched by the meeting, knowing, helping, and being helped by people with a wide variety of socio-economic backgrounds and nationalities. I have increased my tolerance for the little idiosyncrasies of others, as well as understanding and having compassion for their problems. And, most important of all, I have come to accept myself as an individual — one with as many faults as virtues, but a person just the same."

Young World Development is an international action-oriented youth program. It is part of the Young World Program under the Food and Agriculture Organization, and nationally it is affilliated with the American Freedom from Hunger Foundation of the United Nations. Members of Y.W.D. strive to further educate themselves and their community to the problems of the world and seek meaningful ways to involve themselves in community activities. They come to understand that the reasons for racial strife and for war are not traceable to ideal-ogies, but to man's failure to be concerned with humanity. The Walk is not the ultimate answer yet through participation individuals be-come aware of hunger and other related problems. Self-help develop-ment projects are chosen so that Development can indeed be the new word for peace.

FIELD

We talk of the future, how it will be when we are old.
We won't force our children to go to fascist schools
and be taught by brainwashed pigs.
We won't hate or discriminate.
All mankind will be our brothers,
All fellow men our friends.
We preach love for the friendless, peace for the war-torn,
and kindness for the misused.

We talk of that future, we talk of that future when we are old.
But we don't do while we are young.
We smell filth around our feet — and do nothing.
See pain in our peers — and do not help.
Grudge against the less fortunate — not heal their wounds.
And never listen to other thoughts — only to our own.

We talk of the future, how it will be when we are old.
But dear God, we only talk of that future,
Talk of that future, when we are old,
When we are the future,
As if some miracle will change us
And make us different from what we are now,
When we are young.

First Federal not so Foolish Fables / No. 1

If you don't think saving is smart– try eating fat ants next Winter or spending the overdue bill you got today.

You grasshoppers who blow your rolls every Summer: influence your friends and amaze Dad by putting up some cash against next Winter's hardships – like not hitting the slopes or going without new threads.

First Federal's State Street Store is conveniently located within walking distance of the campus and your digs. You'll find some real nice squares who are nevertheless plenty hip about money matters. Depending on your gross, they will show you some savings programs that can make you more than proletarian by Christmas – and some that can make you downright capitalistic (you should pardon the expression). We thank you for the use of your money by paying earnings ranging from a healthy 5% to a robust 6% . . . and more! Whatever your means, First Federal has a savings groove tailored just to you.

Drop in and let's talk it over! Fat ants are funky.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

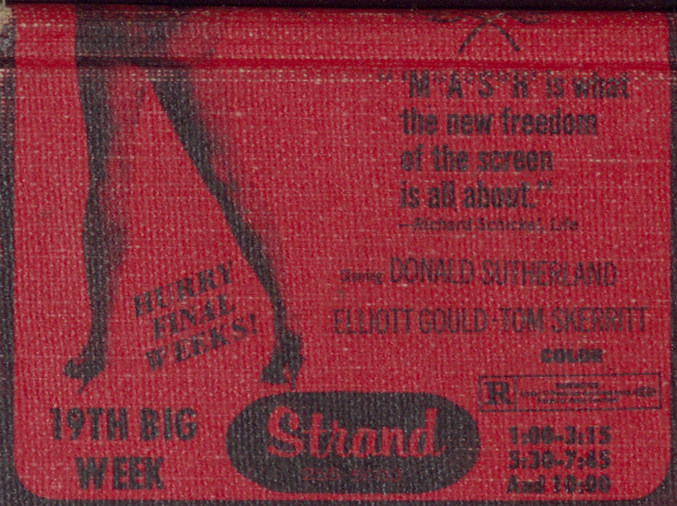

This glorious 1971 Westward Ho did not occur by good luck alone. It took hard work on the part of our photographers, editors, and staff. Our advisor, William C. Keys, also helped a bit; he spent many a night with us instead of with his wife.

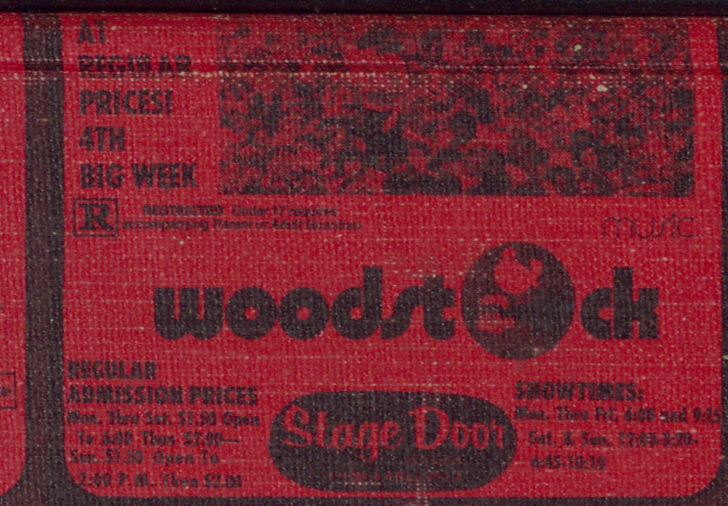

Unlike many yearbooks, the Westward Ho used the talents of non-staff people. We are grateful to Don Hunt for all the lettering and artwork he submitted to us. Tom Jenz, our man from American Yearbook, played a major role in the production of the book. On various pages throughout the Westward Ho photographs appear which were lent us by The Capital Times. And Warner Medlin Studio produced the Senior class photographs. The faculty donated essays for their section and Mrs. Crumpley and DECA sold ads for us. Also essays, artwork, and even photographs were given to us by the student body.

We appreciate the time and work these people exerted for the book. We hope that the student body has enjoyed the finished product as much as we enjoyed the making of this Westward Ho.

Margy Blanchard
